21 Portrait: CAPTAIN JOHN SHORTLAND. H. Field, pinxt. H. R. Cook, sculpt. A fine copperplate engraving, 85 x 110 mm, approx., plus captions & margins. [London]; Published ... by J. Gold; July 31, 1810. John Shortland (1769-1810), naval officer, was born on 5 September 1769, the eldest son of John Shortland. In 1781 he joined the navy as a midshipman and went to Quebec in a transport commanded by his father. From 1783 to 1787 he served in the West Indies, first in the Surprize and then in the Latona. In 1787 his father secured his appointment as master's mate in the Sirius when the First Fleet sailed for Australia. Shortland spent nearly five years in Australia including eleven months on Norfolk Island where the Sirius was wrecked in 1790. In 1792 he returned to England with Hunter and next year was promoted lieutenant in the Arrogant.

In 1794 he returned to Australia with the new governor, John Hunter, in the Reliance as first lieutenant. In this capacity he was too busy to join his shipmates, George Bass and Matthew Flinders, in their expeditions, but on 9 September 1797, while on his way to Port Stephens in pursuit of some runaway convicts who had seized 'the largest and best boat, belonging to Government', he entered the estuary of the Hunter River, where William and Mary Bryant and their party had probably sheltered briefly when they escaped northwards in 1791. During his brief stay Shortland named the river, though for some years it was often referred to as the Coal River, made the first chart of the harbour in the form of an eye-sketch and collected some samples of coal; in a later letter to his father he predicted that his discovery would prove 'a great acquisition to the settlement'. - ADB. #68147

30 Phillip, Arthur: COPIES AND EXTRACTS OF LETTERS from Governor Phillip, giving an Account of the Nature and Fertility of the Land in and adjoining to any Settlement in New South Wales, and Of the Probability of raising any, and what Provisions thereon, and of the Behaviour and Employment of the Convicts sent there, and which have been received since the last Account was laid before the House of Commons. To which are prefixed, Copies and Extracts of Letters from the Office of Secretary of State for the Home Department, bearing Date since the last Accounts relative to the Transporting of Convicts to New South Wales, and providing for the same. London: Printed for J. Debrett, Opposite Burlington-House, Piccadilly. M.DCC.XCII. Med. 4to, First Edition; pp. [ii](title, verso blank), ii, 128(last blank); (a little moderate foxing); old full calf in contemporary style by Sangorski & Sutcliffe; a fine copy; very rare. London; J. Debrett; 1792. Ferguson 144; Wantrup 12. This is the public reprinting of the House of Commons Paper published two months earlier, together with the extremely rare "Extracts of Letters, &c from Governor Phillip, relating to New South Wales. Ordered to be printed 21st May 1792" (Ferguson 143). The latter is reprinted at Pp. 123-127 of the present work and deals particularly with agriculture and land cultivation. These are invaluable documents on the progress of the fledgling settlement during 1790, especially the letters from Phillip, King, Paterson and other colonial officers. Even the lists of clothing and other articles requested and sent out are immensely interesting for the light they shed on the needs and problems of the colony. A foundation work of paramount importance, very seldom offered for sale. #21798 A$39,500.00

(Carlton); The Miegunyah Press; (2003). Number 46 in the second numbered Miegunyah series; 1000 copies were printed. Globalization began much earlier than commonly realised. In the mid eighteenth century there was for the first time in human history sufficient knowledge of the world for people to conceive of it as a whole. British politicians did so with the purpose of creating a trans-Pacific trading empire and this book is a study of the resulting British maritime and imperial expansion in the Indian and Pacific oceans. It explores seaborne discovery, strategy in wartime, and the infrastructure necessary to support far-flung maritime activity, colonization and trade. #41419 AS$275.00

Amsterdam; N. Israel; 1967. Bibliotheca Australiana Nos. 1-2. First published at Paris in 1756. The work, published anonymously, is the first collection of voyages devoted entirely to the Australian and Pacific area. It forms the basis for most of the succeeding collections, including those of Callander, Pinkerton, and to a considerable extent, Dalrymple and Burney. The collection includes accounts of the voyages of Vespucci, Magellan, Drake, Sarmiento, Cavendish, van Noort, Spilbergen, Le Maire and Schouten, Narborough, Dampier, Lozier Bouvet, Anson, de Gonneville, Saavedra, de Quiros, Pelsaert, Tasman, Roggewein, Hertog, de Wit, Jacques l'Hermite - and numerous others - to the coasts of Australia and Tasmania, New Zealand and New Guinea, and the various islands of the Pacific Ocean. Of the seven folding charts by de Vaugondy, two show the entire Australian continent (with a conjectural eastern coastline), and a third shows Northern Australia and New Guinea. De Brosse advocated in his work that France should colonise Australia, and proposed that the country could be settled by the criminals, foundlings and beggars of France. It is highly probable that this work inspired the proposals of Sir Joseph Banks and others for the colonisation of Australia by convict settlement. #2178

Folio, First Edition; pp. [iv](title-page & half-title, verso blank), [ii](To the Public, verso Extract from the Sidney [sic] Gazette Of the 26th December, 1818), 42; full-page map, six double-page and six full-page finely engraved plates, the double-page plates mounted to stubs and in excellent state; contemporary full panelled calf, decorated in gilt and blind, with marbled endpapers; all edges gilt; (expertly rebaked in gilt-decorated matching style by Aquarius; corners & leather expertly refurbished); a very nice copy; very rare. London; R. Ackermann; 1821. Ferguson, 842; Wantrup, 217b; see also McCormick, 145, 148 151, and pp. 309-10. This copy includes the additional leaf of preliminaries, not present in all copies, which reprints from the Sydney Gazette Governor Macquarie's commendation of Wallis's work as Commandant of Newcastle. This was the first book of landscape views of New South Wales and includes among the double-page plates a fine view of early Newcastle and three views of Sydney as well as the celebrated tour-de-force of engraving of an Aboriginal corroboree at night. Among the full-page plates is a fine view of Vaucluse Bay. It is the first plate book illustrated entirely with plates engraved in the colony, at Newcastle, by a colonial engraver, the convict artist William Preston (who had earlier worked for Absalom West). It is one of the rarest of major and important early Australian books. #68220

- 55 Parkin, Ray. H. M. BARK ENDEAVOUR. Her place in Australian History. With an Account of her Construction, Crew and Equipment and a Narrative of her Voyage on the East Coast of New Holland in the Year 1770. With Plans, Charts and Illustrations by the Author. Med. 4to, First Edition; pp. xii, 468; 25 maps, 31 full- & half-page ship drawings and 12 smaller, several sourced from original drawings by Sydney Parkinson, 2 reproductions of original drawings by Parkinson, 15 other illustrations by Ray Parkin (mostly views), notes, bibliography, index; original cloth, gilt; together with, in cloth folding case, 15 detailed ship drawings and plans by Ray Parkin, each 800 by 580 mm., and sourced from original Admiralty drawings supplemented by sketches of Sydney Parkinson, artist on the "Endeavour"; a fine set in cloth slipcase. (Melbourne); The Miegunyah Press; (1997). Edition limited to 1000 copies for sale. Number Thirteen in the second Miegunyah Press series. A magnificent production; a long-overdue detailed analysis of Captain James Cook's ship, fully placed in the context of her time.

The "Endeavour" is one of the most famous ships in maritime history, yet surprisingly few details of her were known to any but a small number of maritime historians. More than twenty-five years before publication of this book, Ray Parkin, seaman, author and artist was amazed to find how little was known and recorded of this ship, and set out to document everything he could discover. His researches were encouraged by that renowned scholar and chronicler of James Cook, Professor J. C. Beaglehole. The result is the most painstaking study of the "Endeavour" yet undertaken and a unique account of a great voyage of discovery: the passage of the "Endeavour" up the east coast of Australia (then called New Holland) in the year 1770.

Written for the scholar, mariner and layperson alike, Ray Parkin has recreated for the reader the very "experience" of being on board H. M. Bark "Endeavour". With meticulous research, he reveals what she looked like, how she sailed, how she smelled; all aspects of daily life on board.

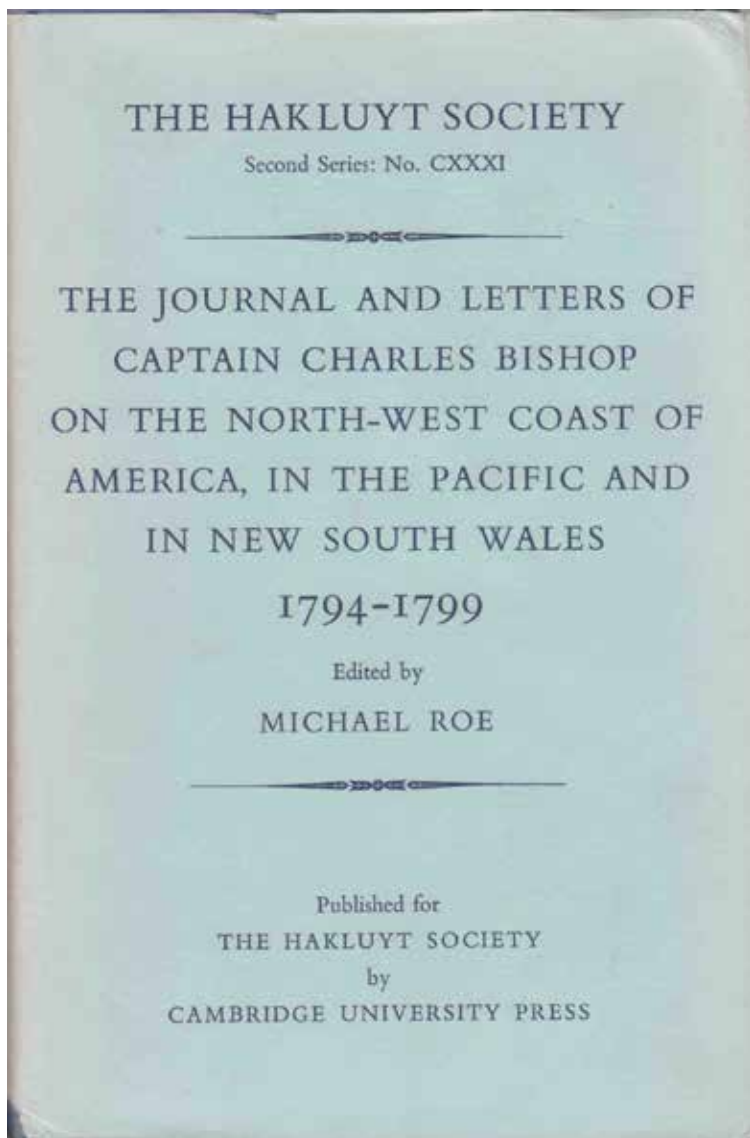

The work is divided into two sections: Part I, The World of the Ship, details the sailor and his environment, the Captain, the ship herself, scurvy and provisioning, the ship's company, and remarks on individuals come to notice through misfortune or by their sins and adventures. The text is accompanied by a series of plans and figures depicting the ship's architecture and construction, her deck plan, rigging, sails, armament, boats, cables, anchors and accommodation. Fifteen of these are reproduced as large folding full-size sketches in the accompanying folding case.

Part II, The Voyage (up the east coast of Australia), is a masterly synthesis of the Ships Log and the journals of James Cook, Sydney Parkinson and Joseph Banks, supplemented where illuminating and appropriate, by extracts from the journals of other members of the ship's complement, and with an interpretive commentary and clearly drawn explanatory charts. #49819

Netley, [Adelaide]; State Publishing; 1989-90-92. *Edition Limited to 500 hand-numbered sets. A complete facsimile of the rare original parts of this important early work on Australian ornithology reproduced from Captain S. A. White's personal copies. Both S. A. White and his father Samuel White were substantial contributors to the work. The Ornithology of Australia was issued in 21 parts between 1866 and 1870 in a limited edition of an uncertain number. By the time part 16 was published there were 92 subscribers to the edition. It is recognised as an extremely rare publication and few complete sets remain in existence. Sylvester Diggles (1817-1880) was a field naturalist and artist who became a strong force in the Queensland scientific and cultural movement. Samuel White communicated with Diggles from 1866 until their deaths in 1880, and was a major contributor to the work. The three volumes reproduce faithfully, without alteration or correction, the complete set of the 126 bird plates and text from the collection held by the family of Captain S. A. White. 81 Broinowski, G. J. PLATES FROM THE BIRDS OF AUSTRALIA. Chromo-lithographs, each 380 x 280 mm approx. Sydney; C. Stuart; 1890-91. We offer here for sale a number of loose unframed prints from Gracius J. Broinowski's THE BIRDS OF AUSTRALIA, lithographed in colours by S. T. Leigh & Co., Sydney, and published by C. Stuart, 1890-91. These prints were originally issued in a series of parts by subscription, each part containing approximately eight plates, and on completion the work was issued in six volumes, sometimes bound as three. We hasten to add that the prints offered here have NOT come from a set of volumes subsequently broken up by ourselves or others (a practice we deplore most strenuously). They have come from a number of odd parts, variously defective, worn or damaged, but the prints themselves are in good to very good condition, with however some minor staining, foxing or fraying, for the most part confined to the (extreme) margins only. When matted and framed, these minor defects will in most cases be entirely invisible and the prints will make attractive and decorative enhancements to any wall. The scans shown are taken from the actual copies of the prints offered, and show any minor blemishes. In order to give some idea of how they might look when framed, we have masked the margins with a semi-transparent surround through which the marginal blemishes may be discerned. Any additional minor blemishes which may not be visible from the scans have been noted. We have not taken any particular care to size or position the mask most advantageously and you are encouraged to examine the images closely to ascertain whether the prints can be suitably framed. The prints measure approximately 280 x 380 mm including margins but do vary slightly in size. The plates are priced individually - prices range from A$20.00 — see fuller descriptions and images at:

88 Healey, Daniel. THE SEVEN CHRISTIANS OF CHAMPIONDOM. A Tale of the Times. Written and published for and by The Author. Sydney, N.S.W. Australia, 1885. 4to, First Edition; pp. 152; original half cloth, marbled sides, with gilt title label on front board, (spine and board edges a little worn, label rubbed; some mild foxing); a very good copy; rare. Sydney; The Author; 1885. Presented to St. Sophia's Library by John Lane Mullins with presentation plate on front pastedown & pocket on rear endpaper. Almost unrecorded, scoring a footnote only to the Author's work of satirical poetry 'The Cornstalk: His Habits and Habitat' (Sydney, 1893) on page 225 of Miller and Macartney, wherein is noted the existence of a 'multiscript' copy of this work in the Mitchell Library. Trove, which records only four copies, records also a contemporary review from The Bulletin (1 August 1885) which can hardly be bettered:

"THE SEVEN CHRISTIANS OF CHAMPIONDOM." We thought we had taken up an old tome written by the white fingers of a monk of the mediaeval times, all about demonology or theology, witchcraft or astrology. It was a pasteboard 10 x 8 thing of some 150 pages, in penmanship of various styles, copied off by a multigraph, or some such instrument, and entitled "The Seven Christians of Championdom." It is neither a fasciculus nor a palimpsest, however. The reader of a few pages will wish it was. Criticism of it is out of the question. Mr. Healey, the author, says, in a preface, that he wrote the tale for publication in a journal which failed to appear, and that as other Sydney newspapers would not "purchase the rubbish," he gives it to his readers in its present form. He heralds this announcement with "Hurrah!"

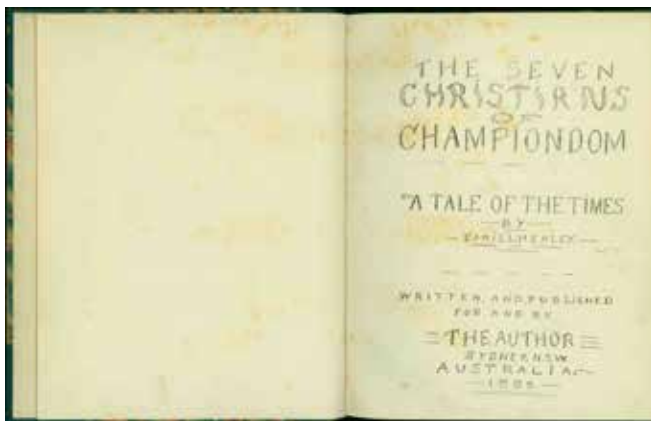

Mr. Healey must have lived with a man who made a few jokes. In the city of Yendis, which is no doubt Sydney, he tells a native, who wants employment, to dress himself as a new chum, and say he arrived by the last boat. He describes fully the workings of the Equality Syndicate. This syndicate will sell land to the poor, and lend them money to build. Thus all will be come landlords. What will the present landlords do with their streets of houses? Sell them to the syndicate. What will the syndicate do with them? Bring out immigrants and rent the houses to them.

Mr. Healey is sly occasionally. He can't be praised, however. Neither is it possible to blame him. One would first want to know what he would have been doing had he not been labouring over the contents of this book. Any action ever attributed to human agency would come natural to a man like Mr. Healey. Some of these actions would have been better work for him than inditing the scroll. Others of them, though, wouldn't. Hence our quandary. Perhaps we shall be doing the right thing if we employ Mr. Healey's own picturesque word. Well, then, "Hurrah!"

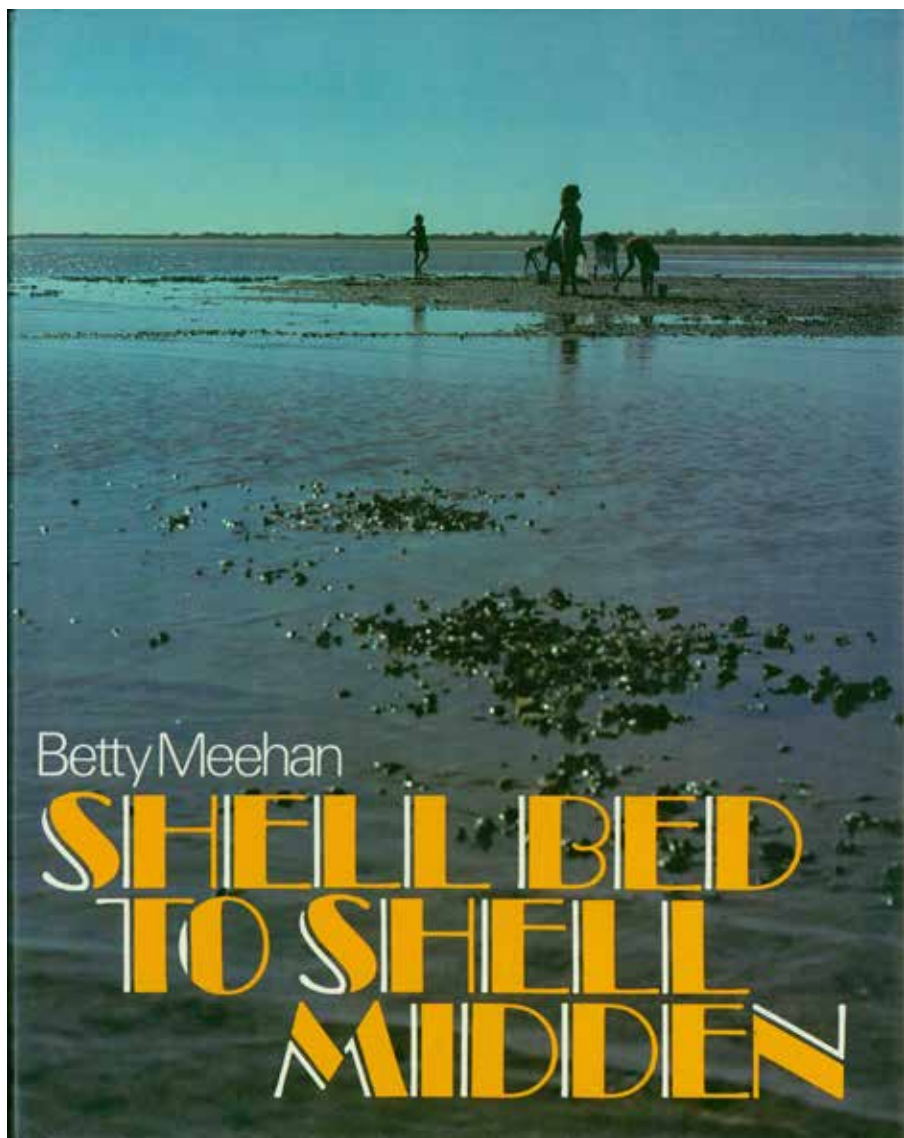

Neither of the terms 'multiscript' or 'multigraph' have an obvious meaning today, but the work has been produced by some sort of duplication of the Author's handwriting. He refers to transcribing the work, so it may have been to some sort of lithographic medium, or perhaps to a form of collotype or some proprietary process which did not survive the test of time. The number of copies originally produced is likely to have been quite small. The text is quite readable and the Author's hand quite legible. A curious and interesting work, written in anecdotal, reflective style, and not without wry humour.

The title is a play on that of Richard Johnson's SEVEN CHAMPIONS OF CHRISTENDOM referring to the alleged exploits of St. George, St. Andrew, etc. the patron saints of England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Spain, Portugal and Wales, first published 1597 and many times reprinted in succeeding centuries. #67966

Melbourne; Edition Renard; 2018. Limited edition of 100 numbered copies (of a total of 215 copies).

John Lingwood Stuart's three manuscript journals, here collected under the title THREE COLONIAL ADVENTURES, have never before been published. Written in 1849, 1851 and 1852-53 they provide a fascinating insight into the migration of a young man from England to Adelaide in South Australia and his subsequent adventures in his new land. His first journal comprises an interesting shipboard diary of his voyage to Australia on board the Minerva. Whilst not a particularly remarkable voyage in itself, his journal captures beautifully the experience of a migrant in the mid-nineteenth century, conveying with gentle humour just what it was like to be a passenger in those times, the routine, the duties, the boredom, the occasional excitement, the wildlife observed, the sickness and (fortunately few) deaths, and of course, the weather.

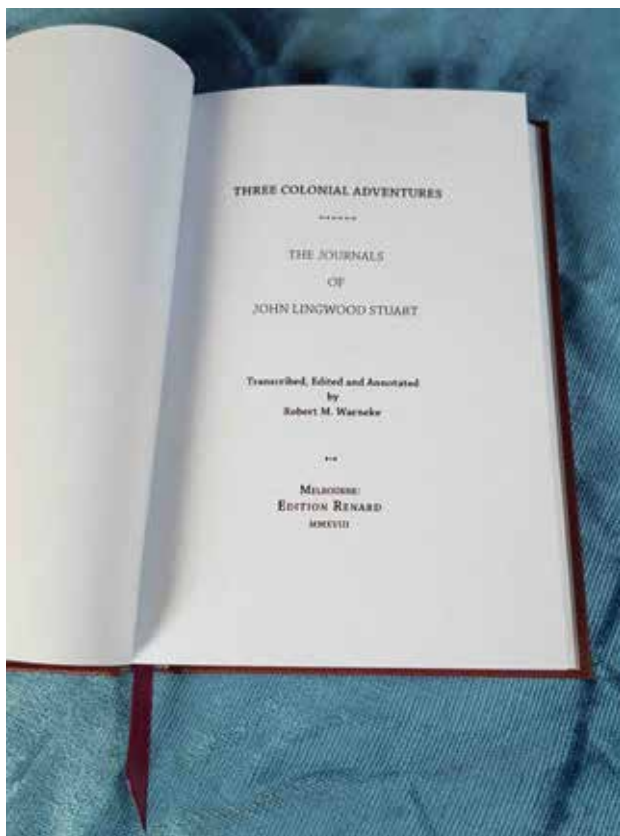

His second journal is much more unusual and historically important. In 1851 Stuart signed on to a sealing expedition in South Australian and Kangaroo Island waters on the cutter Jane and Emma and he gives a detailed daily account of the progress of the voyage, the places visited, seals killed, skins and oil obtained, other wildlife observed, and encounters with sailors, settlers, and Aborigines.

Following his return to Adelaide, in 1852 Stuart embarked on another expedition, this time overland by bullock dray to the diggings at the Bendigo goldfields. Again, historically important, and one of the few detailed journals of the time, Stuart recounts his adventures following the Murray and Loddon Rivers including comments on the squatters and Aboriginal people encountered along the way, the difficulties of travelling with bullocks and much else. Arriving at Bendigo he and his companions spent a few days investigating various gullies before commencing digging in Geelong Gully where almost immediately they found gold.

All three journals have dated daily entries and have been meticulously transcribed, but the wealth of interesting information has been hugely supplemented by the detailed and informative footnotes and the account of Stuart's life (he subsequently became a mining engineer) by Robert M. Warneke. In addition Robert has provided maps of the two Australian journeys, carefully reconciling the places mentioned by Stuart to the geography; a detailed analysis of the seal catch and notes to the wildlife encountered in all three journeys; and an extensive bibliography of the references used. A detailed description of the original journals is provided by Julien Renard.

An entirely new and original work, never before published, our edition has been elegantly typeset with sparing and judicious use of colour to enhance the text and capture the flavour of the manuscript originals, and the volumes have been finely hand bound by Peter Lewis. #68039

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS:

This is our three hundred and forty-sixth short list. We hope you find something of interest.

We intend to produce many more lists in future on a variety of subjects and we would prefer where possible to send these by email as PDF file attachments or links to files on our Website. This has the obvious advantage of reducing costs and enhancing the speed of delivery and the email/PDF versions will also be enhanced with colour illustrations. A fully illustrated version of this list in pdf format is also available on our website or will be emailed on request. Likewise we encourage you to send orders by email, fax or telephone.

If you would like to receive future lists please indicate your interests by email (preferred) or by using the form below by post. Please note we no longer have fax facilities. If you would like to receive ALL lists (email only) please let us know also. If for any reason you do not wish to receive any more of these lists, also please let us know and we will cease and desist. We have experimented with a number of forms for emailing orders to us but many security systems now prevent such links from working correctly so we suggest simply emailing us at: books@GastonRenard.com and copying and pasting the entries of the items you want from the list above. If you encounter any difficulties, please let us know! For orders by post please use the Order Form at end, we do however recommend email as cheaper, faster and more efficient.
